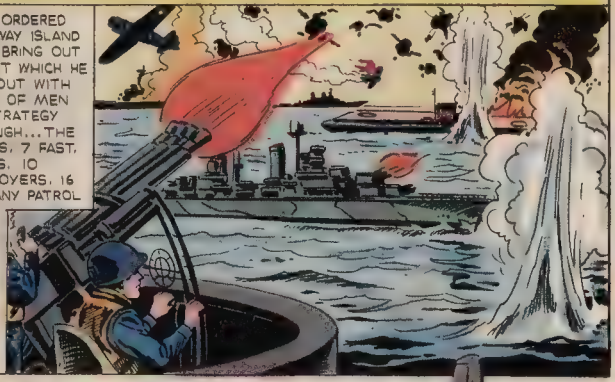
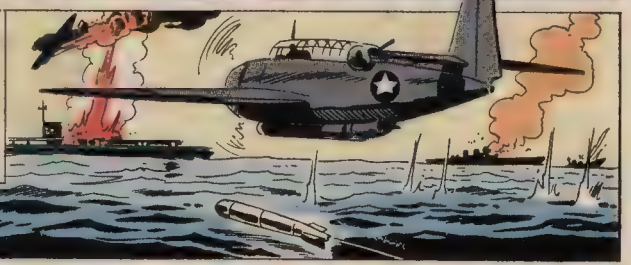
THE TURNING POINT ~ MIDWAY: JUNE 3RD, 1942

ADMIRAL YAMAMOTO ORDERED THE ATTACK ON MIDWAY ISLAND HOPING THIS WOULD BRING OUT THE AMERICAN FLEET WHICH HE WOULD THEN WIPE OUT WITH HIS SUPERIOR FORCE OF MEN AND PLANES. HIS STRATEGY SEEMED SOUND ENOUGH... THE JAPS HAD 5 CARRIERS, 7 FAST, MODERN BATTLESHIPS, 10 CRUISERS, 45 DESTROYERS, 16 SUBS, AND MANY, MANY PATROL BOATS, ETC. OPPOSED TO THIS MASSIVE FORCE, THE U.S. HAD 3 CARRIERS, NO BATTLESHIPS, 8 CRUISERS, 17 DESTROYERS, AND 20 SUBS.



THE JAPS LOST EVERY CARRIER AND ALL THEIR PLANES. AMERICAN LOSSES WERE FANTASTICALLY HIGH, BUT NO VICTORY IN THE PACIFIC WAR IN 1942 COULD BE CHEAPLY WON!



JAPAN'S MIGHTY FLEET WAS ROUTED. IN PANIC THEY FLED, LEAVING THE CENTRAL PACIFIC TO THE AMERICAN FLEET EVEN THOUGH THEY OUTGUNNED IT AT LEAST FOUR TO ONE! MIDWAY WAS THE TURNING POINT... A VICTORY DEARLY PURCHASED BUT A NECESSARY ONE!

DEATH DEFIER in the AGILE MIND

My full name is John Allen Wallington. In my reports my three initials are used: J. A. W. But in the various countries in the world that use my services, I am known as "Death Defier." For wherever there is a challenge to justice or a danger that threatens innocent people, there I go. I care not if I have to be on the burning sands of the desert, in the freezing snows of the Arctic, the highest mountain in the world, or even through unknown jungle areas. All that counts is that innocent people must be saved. And often the challenger is Death himself!

That particular week I had been invited to speak before a class of graduating law enforcement officers. My topic was: "The Agile Mind." I did my best to point the fact out to them that they must be alert every moment of the day or night while they were on duty. And even when they weren't on duty. For who can tell at what moment the unexpected might take place? The problem was to get the mind to react quickly; size up the situation in a fraction of a second; and then go into action with the best plan or solution possible.

I little anticipated that on my way to the airport, I would be faced with the very situation I had talked about to these men. I was feeling rather contented because it had been evident that the men had been interested in what I had to say. Then suddenly I heard the radio speaker in the car blast forth its message:

"Calling Cars 32, 45, and Traffic 2. There is a runaway Diesel Locomotive going south on the northbound track. It just passed the Wilmington Station. And headed for Mountain Pass Tunnel. Stop it if you can! That is all."

At my side in Traffic 2 Patrol Car was Captain John Falone. His face turned white when the message had been completed.

"I worked on that railroad for three years before I joined the force," he told me. "I know every inch of that road from the freight yards to the tunnel. Either the control handle didn't work or the engineer must have had a heart attack and his weight is on it. About this time the Blighton Express is heading on the other side for the tunnel. There is no derailer. If they smash in the tunnel, it will be terrible. What to do?"

We were on the left side of the tracks. And looking back I could see that lone runaway locomotive heading in our direction.

"There is a chance," I said. "If you can get this car almost going at the same speed as the locomotive, then I can jump onto it. It has a guard rail. I have to grab it. No second chance."

This was a long shot. But often that is how it happens when Death seems to grin at me with his challenge:

"Want to try to beat me?"

"Our tires can take it," said Officer John Grady, who was at the wheel of our car. "I'll get half off the road and then see how close I can get to the tracks."

I immediately shifted my position so that I was at the car door which could be opened facing the locomotive. Soon it was almost close to the locomotive. But not close enough for me to make the jump.

"Get closer," I shouted to the driver.

The car door was opened and we were certainly going about seventy miles an hour. My eyes were fixed on that guard rail. Once I grabbed it I had to tense the muscles of my feet and keep my feet high. Otherwise I would be dragged on the ground to destruction. I took a deep breath.

"Now, I am going to jump," I said.

Later they told me it looked as though some force was actually holding me. That I attributed to a tense situation and perhaps even an overworked imagination. I did grab with my right hand but missed with my left hand. I held on and shifted my weight so that I could grab the other rail. Which I did. Then I lifted my body up and went into the control cabin. I slowed the locomotive down. But that was only part of my task. My mind had to be agile! I then reversed it and started backwards. And just in time. Because we actually were in front of that tunnel. And as I went the other way and picked up speed, that other train came out of the tunnel! I blew the whistle and of course he saw me. He slowed down — and that meant the terrible accident had been averted.

This free booklet tells you how you can break into Computer Programming

23,000 more programmers needed each year... get your basic training now!

...by training at home. Also FREE: Interesting sample lesson for you to try. No obligation.

Why don't you prepare for a career in programming? All it takes to start your training is a high school education and a logical mind. No machines are involved because a programmer does not operate machines. He writes the programs that tell the computers what to do.

Programmers are to be found in many types of business—in manufacturing, banks, department stores, communications, transportation, utilities. Trainees begin at good pay, and with the right background and experience can rise to fill supervisory positions at upper-level salaries.

Instead of worrying about how long your present job is going to last, you can plan for a bigger future in a growth field. Continuing expansion in the years ahead may result in more openings for computer programmers than there will be people to fill them!

Right now, without leaving your present job, you can prepare for a trainee position in computer programming. A position that may open up many opportunities for you—in the exciting world of tomorrow.

You can study computer programming with LaSalle at home, in your spare time. Experienced LaSalle instructors will teach you by mail—correct and grade your lesson assignments. You will receive basic instruction in the nature, hardware, vocabulary, equipment and techniques of computer programming.

Send for free sample lesson and fascinating booklet "Beginning Your Career in Computer Programming." In simple, non-technical language this booklet tells you what computer programming is; what the programmer does; and how you can get your basic training in your spare time. LaSalle, 417 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois 60605.
